Sergeant Kirwan of the Royal Irish Constabulary, who acknowledged having loaded his rifle with buckshot and firing the first shot in the square, made further import-ant admissions. When he got back into the barracks he reloaded his rifle with buckshot and fired out on the crowd, which was throwing stones at the barracks. The crowd thereapon fell back, all except a few. He then repaded with ball cartridge and fired. He fired four shots altogether, and ceased firing by order of District Inspector Irwin. The witness swore that he had lost five rounds of ball cartridge and one of buckshot in the square, that they had bounced out of his pouch when running to the barracks. He had forgotten to close his pouch. He had no direct order to LONDON, September 20.—The Times of yesterday, in reviewing the Centennial celebration of the adoption of the Constitution, referred to the official report of the War Department, giving the number of the men slain during the war of the rebellion. It says:

"Americans frequently appear to be vain at their gigantic catalogue of slaughter, pain and devastation. Their pride in its magnitude has always seemed to Englishmen eccent one respect it may not be altogether mis-placed, for it bears witness to a majority of them of the incomparable value of the object for which such calamities were inflicted and suffered. The meeting of the German Catholics last night at St. Mary's school hall did, as predicted in the Post-Disparch, settle the question adopted by the post were distributed to the of the Germans taking part in the Papal Jumembers. lowing the chairman's address with a paper signed by Fathers Goller, Faerber, Lotz, Willenbrink, Schmidel, Schilling, Hoenck, Schrage and Hoffman, declining under any circumstances to join the parade. This at ones showed that no harmonious approval of the parade could be secured, but Pather Innocent of St. Anthony's pleaded for the burying of bygones. His plea was lost in the bitter remarks of Messrs. Areades, Spaunhorst and Beck, who were against the parade, in the main alleging previous insults. On request, Grand Marshal Frank Gaiennie addressed the meeting. As the previous speakers had delivered their remarks in German Mr. Gaiennie was a little handicapped, but avoided any controversial tone and confined his remarks to extending assurances that if they went in they should be treated fairly. After further discussion a final vote was taken on reconsideration, resulting in S5 favoring it and 41 opposing, so that the old resolution stands and the German generally will not take part in the parade. This action was quite a surprise to a great many, as the Archbishop was quoted by the German Vicar-General, Father Muehlslepen, in Saturday's Posr-Disparch, as saying that if the parade was to come off all Catholics should take part, and if they wouldn't then the procession onght to be abandoned. Mr. Spaunhorst explains this point in the interview published below.

Grand Marshal Gaiennie?'' "Certainly," was the ereply. "'I am headed for the procession," he added with a smile. "I cannot see why the parade should not come off. I, with Father Walsh and Mr. Fink, called on His Grace last Sunday and explained how far we had gone in the parade should not come off. I, with Father Walsh and Mr. Fink, called on His Grace last Sunday and explained how far we had gone in the parade should not come off. and call the parade off I would have no choice in the matter, but until then I can do nothing but go right along."

"Do you think the Convention will meet again for that purpose?"

"I do not know, but I do know that it came very near adjourning Sunday night without waiting to hear from the Germans at all."

"Last night there was reference made to insults in past parades to which German Catholics had been subjected. Do you know what they were?"

"I do not. This is the first Catholic parade I ever marshaled," and from the emphasis on the "first" and the weary way he talked about the dissensions and complications, the suspicion that he hoped it would be the last overcame an observer.

"Will the decision last night keep all German Catholics out of the parade?"

"No. Father Schaefer of St. Nicholas, Father Etten of St. Joseph, and Father Innocent of the Franciscans have indicated a determination to come in. Possibly others may do the same."

termination to come in. Possibly others may do the same."

this morning was willing to give a full and clear explanation of the difficulty. He said:
"The first reason why the Germans objected to going in was that they had agreed to build an immigrant house in New York City, to be called the Leo House. It was to be the tribute of the German Catholics and we need every cent we can get to build it. Collections are taken up in the German parishes of America to that end.

"The second reason was that the date was wrong. I want that clearly put. The Germans objected to the date. The fifty years of the Pope's ordination will not be up till December 31, but the English-speaking Catholics come along and say: We will observe it the first Sunday in October, three months before the proper day. Suppose the Holy Father dies before the Sist of December, what then? Wouldn't the celebration seem very incongruous?

Considerable damage is done by the careless drives in turning on and off the water. A report of the deliberations of the Association of Water Commissioners of the United States at the last convention held in Denver, Colo., has just reached the City Hall. This was one of the subjects of discussion. The experience of the city of Brooklyn was given by its Commissioner, who said that 35 per cent of the damage done the fire-plugs was done by the sprinklers. The disastrous fires were attributed to broken plugs left in bad repairs by the carelessness of the drivers. Ten Commissioners, speaking on the subject, said that fire-plugs should not be used by any person except the trained employee of the Fire and Water Departments in large cities.

A sentence imposed by the Police Justices exercise of executive elemency. In support of these requests the poverty and sickness of families depending on the defendants are brought to the attention of the Mayor. In the trials these matters are not gone into and the result is that the Mayor is often obliged to set aside the court's finding entirely or to temper it with mercy. Owing to the time and the anticipated crowds the imprisoned violators of the law have been pushing their friends on the outside to work for their release. As the police will have their hands full His Honor has decided to postpone action in all cases which admit of delay until after the departure of the visitors.

After idling away over half his life in small Illinois towns, he was shipped to this city by subscriptions taken up among charitable people at Carbondale, who believed that they were aiding him in sending him to a big city for care. The City Hall officials concluded that it would be a bad precedent for the city to adopt an outcast from another place, and he was accordingly shipped back to Carbondale, the railroad company, which is the only party violating the pauper law in this transaction, receiving the entire and only benefits.

SSISTANT-ATTORNEY-GENERAL MAUREY DISCUSSES THE APPEAL.

Carried to the United States Supreme Court-An Emphatic Protest Against entive Clemency for the Condemne . Threwers-Chicago Trades' Unions Adopt Resolutions of Sympathy.

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 20.—Assistant Attorney-General Maurey, when asked his pinion regarding the appeal of the Chicago-narchists' case to the United States Supreme court, yesterday, said it was no uncommi thing for State cases to be taken to the Su-preme Court on writs of error, the grounds for the application being the interpretation of a statute or a question affecting the rights or present liberty of the subject as granted to him under the Constitution. In fact, these are the only grounds on which the case can come before the court. Section 709, revised statutes, in express terms confers this power on the court. The question then was whether any Federal statute needed to be interpreted, or whether the rights of the condemned men had been violated and not fully protected as granted by the Constitution, or if the laws of Illinois under which they had been tried were in conflict with the Constitution. Concerning these points, Mr. Maurey confessed that he could offer no positive opinion, because the newsunts did not set forth, with sufficient clearness, the issues on which the appeal ould be based. If the writ of error were granted, it would be because it was shown that some such point as he had mentioned was reviewable. The general management or was reviewable. The general management or conduct of the case could not be considered.

As an illustration he cited a Virginia appeal, a very voluminous chancery case, where the only point involved, as far as the Supreme Court was concerned, was the interpretation of the word "fraud" in the bankruptcy act. Mr. Maurey was asked if an appeal would lie because of Spies" assertion that the State had placed his life in jeopardy owing to its having ransacked his private drawers and there found a copy of the famous "Revenge" circular, and which figured so prominently in the trial. Mr. Maurey's answer was that the State had a right to use all the evidence it could get, and that unless that evidence was procured by unconstitutional means it would not affect the case. Spies might, if he liked, bring an action for trespass or larceny against the detective who purioined the circular, and the Court might decide that no trespass or larceny had been committed. If a Supreme Court Justice grants a writ of error, the Attorney-General of Illinois, representing the defendant in error, will submit a printed brief in support of the judgment of the State court being affirmed. There will probably be no argument before the Court. The granting of the writacts as a stay of execution, and if the Anarchists succeed in getting the writ and the Supreme Court affirms the validity of the sentence, they will have secured a further lease of life.

PUTTING IT STRONGER.

are always fools to sympathize with murderers, but who never give a thought to their victims. There are always weak-minded persons who sign any petition presented to them, whether it is to put a rogue or a blockhead into an office or to let a criminal loose upon society. It may be that these petitions will receive many thousand signatures. It may even be that they will receive so many as to be mistaken by some for the expression of public sentiment. We shall all hope to be spared any such exhibition of maudilin sentiment. But if it should come, Gov. Oglesby would find that he had in his hands the decision of an issue of national importance. These men are NOT ORDINARY CRIMINALS.

The question raised here bears no relation to the considerations of expediency commonly involved in the pardon of malefactors. The unwise release of a murderer or a burglar may have serious resuits, but the harm that would be done would, after all, spend itself within a narrow circle. But if these men should be pardoned, or their sentence should be commuted—which would doubtless be only the first step toward a pardon at some future day—the news would send a thrill of joy innongh every band of Anarchists in America and Europe. Every man who preaches assassination and destruction would be elated. In Europe it would be interpreted that in the great republic license and liberty were one and the same thing. It would be said that, having got our hands on the throats of these misereants we lost courage, and instead of choking their lives out of them to protect our own we lost courage and weakly let them go. In this country every lawless element would take heart at once and go on with new plans for spreading their gospel of murder. The pardon of these men would multiply a hundred-fold every danger that exists to-day from this class in our population. This would be a fearful responsibility for an executive to take. If a few noisy thousands demand it let Gov. Oglesby think of the silent millions who sternly wait to see justice done."

New York, September 20.—Following the present custom, Mrs. Langtry last night presented a stage version at the Fifth Avenue Theater, of a popular but not very meritorious novel known to novel readers and the patrons of the theater under the title of "As in a Looking-glass," a meaningless and incomprehensible title, by the way.

The return of Mrs. Langtry in itself was enough to assemble a brilliant audience, and the Fifth Avenue Theater looked more resplendent with toilets and diamonds and showed more familiar society people than it has since this actress drew her admirers in "The Lady of Lyons." "As in a Looking-glass," is an amateurish resting Statistics Regarding Labor, Strikes, Marriages and Divorces.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

Washington, D. C., September 20.—The Labor Bureau has some interesting work now in and and mapped out. In about a month is will commence a general inquiry as to the con dition of railroad employes. This will embrace statistics in regard to their work and surstatistics in regard to their work and surroundings, their earnings, the number of hours they labor, what constitutes the "run" of a fireman, engineer, conductor and brakeman, the percentage of casualties to the number of men employed, the benefit derived from the insurance and relief associations that have been started by some of the roads, and much other information of avaluable character. This fall the Bureau will investigate the cost of production of some of the leading staples, cotton, sugar, flour, meal; perhaps coal and iron, and the cost of distribution. By a series of analytical tables will be shown the cost of the raw staple, what must be added to turn it into the manufactured article, then the expense of transportation, the profits and other charges incurred by the middle-men, and finally the cost of this same article to the consumer.

The advance guard of the country contingent is beginning to come in, and it is worth half of the admission money to watch it enjoy itself. The country folks bring the whole family along and make a night of it. Besides that, they do not see the show by halves. They go through the whole performance, from the art gallery down to the coal mine in the basement, and wind up in the restaurant, where they attend to the business end of the trip. Then they wander around reviewing what they have already seen, and depart with regret when the doors close.

Exhibitors seem to have caught a fever of guessing methods for the purpose of more thoroughly advertising their wares. There are now five guessing arrangements in the hall with valuable prizes for the successful applicant. Everybody talks about them and speculates upon the probabilities, but it is surprising to see how much courage is required for the average man to step up and drop a card in one of the boxses with his particular guess, whatever it may be, written thereon. When one does screw up his courage to the pitch of writing out his guess he finds that it is necessary to draw on more in order to deposit it. Finally he moves silently up to the box, looks suspiciously around, suddenly drops it in and then steals off with a guilty expression on his face. Those who are in the immediate neighborhood and who, haply, have seen him in the act, regard him with looks of curjosity, not that they do not envy him, but merely because they are jealous of the leonine courage manifest in the act.

on Wednesday, 21st inst.

You will see who we are at the end of this notice. We are going to sell the best-made clothing in the country in the best way. The kind of clothing you meant to buy ever since you bought clothing.

We have made our plans to do it in a hurry. No time to put any unusual fineness into the store. You'll have to look in the clothing for the unusual—the quality and style of clothing-and how it's sold.

We shall not say a word about the prices. No. We'll wait till we know what you say about them. We mean to sell clothing for no more than just as little as we can. It's business we are after. Business and as little profit as will let the business grow its fastest.

We're going to sell clothing in the best way. Whatever rush there is in opening our store, and getting goods here, there is none in our methods. They have been tried for many years. They amount to just this: Protect the Customer! Protect the Customer!

There will be time enough to lift them out, one by one, and make them plain to you a little later.

You are welcome. We bespeak the same from you for our enterprise. See the goods. Test our clothing and methods. Depend on every quality and on every price. Welcome!

HEARING BEFORE JUDGE LURKE.

At 10:30 Judge Lukke admitted Messrs. E. T. Allen, W. Le B. G. Allen and B. D. Lee to the consultation rooms and heard what they had to say for and against the injunction. Nearly an hour they were closeted and when they issued announced that the Judge had not granted the injunction, but had rested the matter until this afternoon, when he would hear the gentleman further on the subject. The reason he had not taken action was because Mr. Lee, who appeared for Boyce, said work would be suspended until the Court could have time to consider. The lawyers then went to the corner of Olive and Fourth streets where the work was in progress. Mr. Boyce was there superintending the putting together of the second arch. The structure consists of two arches, 5 feet apart, supporting a box of stained glass on the sides of which well be representations of Grant on horse-back. The first of these arches is nearly complete, one section on the west corner being lacking. It was this shoulder Secretary Allen objected to. "We don't want to obstruct the committee," he said to a reporter, "but look, see for vourself; when that arch is completed. A Section Residence of the section of the program o pensation, and half-a-dozen other distinguished and high-salaried railroad experts put it at from $10,000 to $15,000. It is evident that Judge Brewer is not much inclined to reform the tendency of the courts to magnify the office of the receiver and make receiverships the big bonanzas of judicial patronage. The fancy compensation allowed to receivers sometimes looks like a vindictive fine imposed on rash litigants for appealing to the courts to interfere with the operations of Wall street syndicates.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Your correspondent last night made a good protest against the mud made by the sprink-lers on the boulevards, but there was one fault with its tone—it was too innoest. He seemed to overlook the fact that the mud is made promeditatedly on the theory that if sprinking can be made odious to the people, the contractors can get back the old system of roper. Now, how can they accomplish their object better than by putting too much water where little is needed and very little of their wagons over some streets and or much water where little is needed and very little of their wagons over some streets and or much water where little is needed and very little of their wagons over some streets and or much water where little is needed and very little of their wagons over some streets and or much water where little is needed and very little of their wagons over some streets and or much water where little is needed and very little of their wagons over some streets and or much water where little is needed and very little of their wagons over some streets and or much water wagons over some streets and or much others, dividing the city into "west" and "dry" districts. The Times says: "Bonds are suffering as much as stocks. No bids can be had for anything. The banks are throwing everything but old gilt-edged securities out of the lists of collateral on which they are willing to make loans. Merchants are suffering quite as badly as are the people directly engaged in Wall street trading. The banks are unable, or unwilling, as the case may be, to provide any such accommodations as the needs of commercial trade call for and this is obliging lots of merchants to open their strong boxes and go to Wall street, seeking a market for dividend-paying stocks and gilt-edged bonds that have been laid aside as sure income providers these many years. But in some boxes there are other things than the old gilt-edged parchments, and visits to Wall street are quite often to try to sell the stock or bonds of some company hardly yet pushed forward to safe and solid footing among investments. The effect astonishes them. Things for which they have paid good money, and in whose value they have an absolute confidence, are discredited, unmarketable almost at any price. Tight money' is the only explanation they are accorded. With all this tight money talk, however, there is a good deal more of a scare than reality. More people are nervous than are hurt. The world is not going to end right away. Cool-headed owners of securities, having seen quotations drop so far, are hardly likely to rush at a gallop now to unload at the bottom." His first appearance in the hotel was the signal for the exhibition of powerful curlosity, which followed him during the entire day. The cab which he entered at the hotel was driven direct to the United States Customhouse, where the General alighted and, passing up the steps to the Eighth street entrance, entered the elevator and was taken to the third floor, where the United States Circuit Court chambers are situated.

Gen. Butler's arrival at the Custom-house created an even greater sensation than at the hotel. He was expected there and all who were in the building were on the qui vive for him. The elevator boy grew six inches tailer. After the General was in the elevator and every passenger was notified of the fact that a famous man had just gone to the third floor, most of them got off there to take a look at him. The General was escorted to the court chambers by his valet, whom he always takes with him, and entered the apartment.

The only point he did not touch was the treaty question, which he left to Judge Dixon. During the argument Gen. Butler sat for the most part with his heavy eyelids resting on his cheeks as if asleep, the only indication that this was not his condition being the constant movement of his lower jaw in the act of masticating the tooth-pick. Some times he would cast his sharp little bead-eyes around the room; lifting his eyelids with an effort and tilting his head back. Once he drew Mr. Vroom down to him by the lapel of his cont and whispered something in his ear; then he chewed more vigorously and moved restlessly in his chair for a few minutes. Once he fell asleep and gave two or three big nods, awakening with a start and looking hastily around to see if any one caught him. The court and spectators were on to the General's nap, and a smile passed around the room.

At 1 o'clock Judge Brewer announced a recess of an hour and Gen. Butler was immediately surrounded by a circle of lawyers and spectators who were introduced to him. He chatted cordially with the throng and then returned to his hotel for lunch.

Mr. Vroom continued his argument this afternoon and at the count and occupied the remainder of the day.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., September 20.—A sensation was created in the Criminal Court-room last night. The jury in the case of Milton Bur Judge White polled the jus twice, and each responded that the verdict announced was his. The Judge then sen-tenced Burton to five years in the peniten-tiary. Scarcely had he prescribed the sen-tence, when Juror Thomas Glenn sprang up

"You are committed to the County Jail under $5,000 bail for contempt of court and to answer to the charge of perjury. The verdict against the prisoner at the bar, though it may be a just one, must be set aside on account of your action, and a new trial is necessitated."

If the disqualification of a jury a few days ago created a sensation, the scene in court last night created a greater one. Glenn went to jail. This morning he was fined $10 and committed to jail for five days:

Judge White said last night: "I think it is time to use stringent measures in regard to some jurors. I am getting heartily tired of such foolishness and such silly blunders. It is the duty of jurors to be very careful indeed."

derful feats made them one of the best drawing cards in the sawdust ring. As he grew stronger he added to his specialties and became a rider, still walker, leaper, double somersault thrower and tight-rope walker. His favorite feats were leaping through the dagger-lined rings and the harlequin dives through six fire balloons. This is why it is a matter of indifference to him how he makes the base slide, for his acrobatic training saves him from injury. Asked his method in stealing bases he said: "I play as far off of first as to make it nip and tuck which will get back first, me or the ball. Then I set my left spikes and get a spring in that foot. At the first and faintest motion to pitch I fire myself away from that left foot and make a gain of five feet anyhow, and then it's a sprint for second. Most players begin to slide too soon. You don't want to slide until within about eight feet of the base, for you're losing speed when on the ground. Always just the instant before making the dip, I look to see how the ball is coming. If it's coming high, I take the belly-buster in front of the baseman, for nine out of ten of them swing back with the ball, and I ain't there. That fools them. If it's coming low I go behind them and twist out with my right toe and my left knee. If it's going to be a pretty close thing and the ground is good and dry, I've got all my legs and arms to kick up a big dust, so the umpire can't see how the thing is, and my story is as good as the second baseman's when the clouds clear away, don't you see?"

Cincinnat closes the season at Sportsman's Park with three games, beginning next Sunday.

Capt. Comiskey's "historical" thumb is all right again. He will probably play next Sunday against Cincinnati at Sportsman's Park.

The champions took nearly $1,000 as their share of the receipts in Kansas City yesterday. The people in that suburban Missouri village are wildly infatuated with the world-beaters.

E. E. Menges of Kansas City will in all probability, be elected President of the new Western and Northwestern League in process of formation. He is the foremost advocate of it, and the best man for the position.

The Cuban Giants want to play the cham-The Cuban Glants want to play the champions—this time in Jersey—when they go East on the world's championship tour. But as President Von der Ahe is ''dead sore'' on the Jersey mosquitoes, the chances are the game will not take place.

The Detroit Free Press man has an idea that the champions' big fielding and batting records were not earned by as hard work as were those of Detroit, claiming that the latter had to "play ball" all the time, while the champions had a walk-over. Detroit will bring their eight pitchers against the champions in the coming world's championship games. The Browns will have Bob Caruthers, Dave Foutz, Silver King and Ed Knouff to look after their interests. Detroit will find that too many pitchers will spoil the broth.

The fight forsecond place between Louisville and Cincinnati will be decided in a great measure by St. Louis. The champions, beginning to-morrow, play nine successive games with Cincinnati, six of which will be played at Porkopolis. Louisville in the meantime plays nine games with Cleveland.

The Derroit Free Press run is an established The Detroit Free Press man is an established success as a blower, and his advance blasts are full of his characteristically bombastic superciliousness. Let him keep on blowing. When the time comes the champions will wipe up the earth with the Detroit sluggers and naught will remain of their existence save the recollection of Detroit wind.

lection of Detroit wind.

The Indian national games which take place at Sportsman's Park on September 29, 30 and October 1 and 2 are the talk of the town. Big Chief Al Coilins of the unmpirical corps says he hears nothing but "Big Injun" as a greeting wherever he goes, and says were he not known as the Man-who-never-shows-the-white-feather, he would resign his position instanter. He claims that he is bothered nearly to distraction by applications for service on his corps, and has been compelled to seek the seclusion of the by-streets and "keep in the shade" in his peregrinations. Col. Joe Carr, the Big Chief's aid-de-camp, likewise complains of a similar trouble. The Indian corps is complete and no more applications need be ete and no more applications need

It is not a settled thing yet as to whether the St. Louis Club will or will not go into the League.—[New York Sun.

Hitting a base runner with the ball, and then making a kick, because he is not declared out for obstructing the ball, as Fennelly did in the Brooklyn game on Wednesday, should be stopped.—[Exchange.

In conversation in front of the United States Hotel, Boston, a few evenings ago, Glasscock said: "We can't beat anybody. If ever I play with a club like this again I'll go crazy. I'm half-crazy now." And then the Hoosiers went out West and walloped the Chicagos.

"A pair of gloves lost Chicago the pennant this year," said an enthusiast to-day. "Anson was too pig-headed to wear gloves, and I find that he has made at least thirty-five errors by muffing thrown balls and lost about seven games in this way."—[Chicago paper.

A Cieveland exchange cries "Fire! Murder! Watch!" Eh? What's the matter? Nothing, only Rooney Sweeney has signed with the Metropolitans. "Gid" Gardner has also caught on in the League. Now let somebody sign Fred Lewis and then order the orchestra to strike up." Here's a real sporting item from Detroit

Here's a real sporting item from Detroit: The League Clubs are now coming down the home stretch. A wide expanse of daylight can be seen between Detroit, the leader, and the rest of the field. The Woiverine racer is bowling along at a high rate of speed, but with plenty of reserve power left, and is a sure winner. The whip and spurs will have to be applied to the Chicago steed in order to keep in second piace. The Metropolitan entry has been headed by the Quaker filly, and the latter will doubtless come in ahead. The Boston scrub is humping itself to get better than fifth, but will doubtless fail.

The Lecal Bicycle Champion Wants to Meet Whittaker.

While S. G. Whittaker is challenging Wm A. Rowe down East and making capital out of his desire to meet the world's champion, he is seemingly forgetful that there is a young rider in the West who has his eye on him and would like to get into his wool. Percy Stone of this city, who is without doubt the fastest blcycle-rider the West has, expresses his thorough

MONEY.

New York, September 20, 11 a. m.—The stock market was extremely active at the opening this morning, with prices very irregular, changes from last evening's final figures ranging up to & per cent both ways among the active list. The market displayed great feverishness, and the Irregularity continued to be a feature, but most stocks were weak, and in the first fifteen minutes Jersey Central lost 18; Pacific Mail, 14; Manhattan, 24; Oregon, 1; Colorado Coal, 2; and others smaller amounts. A sharp raily then took place, and a marked decrease in the amount of business done, although the market was still active. Prices were generally brought up to about opening figures, and in many cases fractional gains were made. There was no regularity to the movements, however, and the market remained feverish and unsettled throughout. At 11 o'clock the market is only fairly active at irregular chankes from opening prices.

Noon—Money is easy at 566 per cent. Bar silver, 964. The stock market was again subjected to a heavy decline at 11 o'clock, and among the active stocks, Canada Southern was forced down 2½, Erie, New England and Lake Shore, 1½; Lackawanna, 2½; Western Union and Omaha, 14; New York Central, 14; Richmond & West Point, Reading & Texas Pacific, 1 per cent, and others smaller amounts. As before a sharp raily recovered most of the losses and the market quieted down, but still remained feverish and irregular, Lake Erie & Western preferred rose 2 per cent, while Oregon Navigation lost a like amount. At noon the market is quiet, but irregular, generally at great declines from first prices. U. S. 4s. coupon, 124%; do 4½s. coupon, 108; Pacific 6s of 1895, 122.

3 p. m.—The general tendency this afternoon has been toward higher prices and at the close the market was quiet, but firm to strong at irregular changes from opening figures.

THE "BLACK DIAMOND" LAID OUT. A Chicago Pugilist Murdered by a Jealous Colored Man.

CHICAGO, Ill., September 20.-Thomas J. White, a colored porter on the Wisconsin Central Railroad, shot and killed Henry Woodson, alias the "Black Diamond," early this morning. White had been living with a white woman named Irma Hayes. Shortly after mid-night he found Woodson in company with the night he found Woodson in company with the Hayes woman, and attempted to induce the woman to go home with him, but Woodson objected and a struggle followed. The "Black Dlamond" got his adversary down and pulled his revolver. He fired two shots, when White, with a desperate effort, succeeded in freeing himself and in wrenching the weapon from Woodson's hands. White then fired two shots at Woodson, one of which wounded the woman in the hand. The other took off the top of Woodson's head, killing him instantiy. White attempted to The other took off the top of woodson's head, killing him instantly. White attempted to escape through a back door, but was captured. Woodson, the victim, was a puglist who has fought several mills in different parts of the country. The woman in the case is 20 years old and claims to be the daughter of a late Judge of the Criminal Court in Louisville.

Lord Randolph Churchill, too, was a daily visitor, and, strange to say, was generally unrecognized. When a knowing one pointed him out, struggling with a refractory cigarette, among the bloods of the noblemen's stand, or in the paddock, he instantly became the best mobbed man on the course. No need to enumerate all the noble sports of both sexes who crowd every coigne of vantage, but s few ladies may be named, such as the Duchess of Manchester, wearing a gray cloth dress, black velvet covered coat, and a tall hat, gay with feathers. Lady Sykes, in black satin, with bright steel trimmings, and the Duchess Caroline of Montrose in black cloth with an amazing bunch of orchid. THE YACHT RACE. The question has often been asked if the Thistle will return with the cup won by the America. My opinion is that she will. Judg-ing the yachts by last year's competitors, the Volunteer is by no means such an improved design on the Mayflower as the Thistle is, compared to the Galatea. The Thistle, we all know, is designed to excel in light breezes such as are prevalent on the American coast, and that Mr. G. L. Watson has succeeded no one can deny. He has been aided in no small degree by Messrs. Lapthorn & Ramsey, whose silken sails, introduced by them this season, catch even the faintest airs, and without doubt have contributed largely to the Thistle's success in English waters. The firm have refused to make any of these costly sails for American yachtsmen, or even to supply the special ma terial used. The pecuniary loss must be cor siderable, but yachtsmen will no doubt admire the patriotic spirit which has prompted the refusal to supply the orders.

MGR. PERSICO AND HEALT. It is quite clear that Mgr. Persico and Mr. Timothy Healy form totally different estimates of the same individual. Not long ago the Home-Rule Member of Parliament, in an open meeting, denounced Lord Bantry close to or on his property in County Kerry, as a bushwhacker. Mgr. Persico, however, accept Lord Bantry's hospitality at Bantry House and the peasantry will probably make a not of these discrepant views.

SHOES OUR NATAL DAY

"LARGE OAKS FROM LITTLE ACORNS GROW."

Let us, you and I, 1887, take a walk back and pay a visit to 1873. Take my arm—so. Now we are ready. We will find 1873 in very different circumstances to the comfortable quarters you now enjoy. Only a small store—20x80 just one-half of your present ground floor. No electric light—no handsome store and office fixtures—no elaborate show windows—no other clothing stores within sight. Surely, your advancement shows very conspicuously, 1887, when compared with 1873. There are many among our stanch supporters who remember you, 1873. They look a little older now, and they bring families of healthy boys for you to rig out in your latest and best, 1887. Ah, but 1873 was made of stern stuff. He started in right; his principles were just; his aim was high. In him was the nucleus of your present consistency, 1887. Truly, he was a vigorous youngster, for he soon grew out of his surroundings and had to be accommodated with an additional room (your present ground floor, 1887). This answered until the spring of 1882, when more room was indispensable, and the second floor was added, and we find you comfortably located there. But still you cry for more space. Does it not content you that we have handsomely redecorated you from cellar to ceiling in commemoration of your 14th birthday? Truly, you are insatiable. What is that you say? An immensely increased volume of business demands it? Perhaps you are right, for notwithstanding that your neighborhood has become the clothing market of this metropolis you have always held the lead, and will continue to do so against all comers. Many happy returns of the day, 1887. Keep right along in the path of progress and rest assured that as St. Louis grows you will grow with it.

Our Exposition display is now complete and is decidedly our greatest effort in decorative art. We know of no more appropriate manner to celebrate our birthday than to hold a reception at our handsome show cases in the Exposition Building. Members of our staff will attend in full evening dress and distribute souvenirs wherewith to mark the date of our 14th birthday.

Our Autumn Novelties in Top Coats, Business, Dress and Semi-Dress Suits are many and varied, and we are adding to them every day. In quantity our stock is larger than ever before; in quality it is up to our usual high-grade standard.
